FREIGHT SERVICE OVER THE MONONGAHELA TO BEGIN SOON

Announcement From Superintendent's Office Says Date Will be August 30

PERMIT IN WEST VIRGINIA

Public Service Commission Grants Right For State Service, But Interstate Right is Yet to Come—Anticipate Passenger Service Shortly.

Freight services will be inaugurated over the Monongahela Railways line in West Virginia on August 30 and the shipment of freight over the new line from Brownsville to Fairmont made possible, it is expected shortly after. Freight and passenger service is now being maintained on a part of the line from Brownsville to West Point Marion. Freight service is made possible in West Virginia through a special permit given by the West Virginia Public Service commission.

In line with the plans for the operation of the West Virginia line of the Monongahela Railways company, agents have been appointed by General Superintendent G. B. Obey for Morgantown and Fairmont. The Morgantown agent will be H. E. Catherman, who has been transferred from Leckrone and the Fairmont appointment, T. D. Connell, who has been transferred from Grays Landing. Other changes have been made.

It will be impossible to engage in inter-state commerce just now over the new line, the permit of the West Virginia Public Service commission not including that right. However it is believed that this right will shortly be forthcoming.

According to a statement from Chief Clerk C. O. Dorr, in General Superintendent Obey's office at Brownsville, freight service will first be inaugurated over the new line and then passenger service started as soon as possible. It is considered likely that passenger service may be established with the issuance of the September time tables or before that time if the facilities are completed.

WAGE CAMPAIGN ON COAL PICKERS

Railroad Takes up Movement to Prevent Trespassing on Tracks

ONE ARREST IS MADE HERE

The Pennsylvania Railroad is carrying on a campaign hereagainst coal picking along the track. Railroad detectives have notified parents of children said to have been so engaged as well as a number of women. One arrest has been made.

Most of the coal picking has taken place near the plant of the Charleroi mine of the Carnegie Coal company. The railroad is conducting its campaign, not so much because of the loss of coal from mines and cars, but because of the violations of the trespass laws and the danger to life and limb.

The woman arrested is Mrs. Kalena Soon. Several children whose ages range from seven to 13 have been caught and their parents notified. In the campaign the railroad is pointing as an example to the death of an Ellsworth boy of 11 years from trespassing while picking coal along the tracks at Ellsworth.

Grading From Lincoln to Meadow on $11,000 Contract About Completed

EASY GRADE TO BE PROVIDED

Arrangement for Separating Ascending and Descending Streets a New One—Reinforced Concrete Wall Strong Enough for Fortress

A reinforced concrete wall strong enough and tall enough to be used for a fortress were it differently located and arranged is being built almost in the center of Third street from Lincoln avenue to a point near Lookout avenue to separate what will be an ascending and a descending street. The wall is the result of the dream of theorists for an easy grade to the hill district. Contractor Thomas Arrigo is doing the work, it being included in his $11.000 contract for the grading and paving of Third street from Lincoln avenue to Meadow avenue.

The wall will be 350 feet long. At the base it will be three or four feet thick and at the top the thickness will be one foot. At the highest point the wall will be 13 feet high and at the lowest point five feet high. The wall is reinforced in two ways.

The ascending street will be several feet lower than the descending street and will be constructed on the south side of the street. It will be 19 feet wide, while descending street with a steeper grade will be but 12 feet.

The wall is now being finished as rapidly as possible to divide the two streets. Probably it will be completed by the first Saturday in September. Practically all the grading has been completed. When paved it is anticipated Third street will be one of the best appearing as well as one of the most useful streets of the borough.

OUR RESPONSIBILITY

The following brief editorial in the Washington Observer is especially timely and fitting local conditions, deserves re-printing:

Our responsibility as citizens to secure the right kind of men for high public office also applies with equal force in the selection of men for our minor offices, even for the administration an enforcement of local laws and in those places where executive and administrative ability are essential. Every once in a while we hear of the law-breaking down in certain communities, due to the weakness of the officers entrusted with the carrying out of the laws and their administration.

A weak man in any public office is always a source of danger to a community.

It would be well for the voters when they make their selection of local candidates to size them up, take an inventory of their ability and ask themselves the question what would he do if he faced a critical situation? Would he be weak, would he be able to resist public clamor to protect the people or would he measure up to the difficult situation?

According to the new dog law, assessors are to publish in newspapers the names and addresses of owners of dogs. This is a feature of the law that is good whether anything else about it is or not. Auditors statements of school and borough finances are published regularly with the view of informing the people of facts they rightly should know and the reason for the publication of the facts about dogs is similar.

The wisdom of not permitting a foreigner to own a dog is questionable, though of course the reason is to prevent him from hunting or killing wild animals. Some time ago he was deprived of the privilege of using a gun. Now about the only thing left for him to own is a pocket knife.

At Jackson, Ga., a 14-year old negro boy has been sentenced to be hanged for "attacking a white girl." This is another example of the travesty which is allowed to pass for justice in that blood-stained state of the south. With murders and lynchings and irresponsible hanging of children, hot-headed Georgia is reverting to mediaeval times.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

In the "Interesting People" department of the September American Magazine appears an article about Russell H. Conwell the famous Philadelphia speaker who has delivered one lecture over five thousand times. In the course of the article Mr. Conwell tells as follows what Abraham Lincoln once said to him:

"'No man ought to be ambitious to be President of the United States, when this war is over and that won't be very long. I tell my Tad we will go back to the farm where I was happier as a boy when I dug potatoes at twenty-five cents per day than I am now. I tell him I will buy him a mule and a pony and he shall have a little cart and he shall make a little garden in a field of his own.'"

To Johnny, his teacher seemed old—very old—at least 30. She was teaching him the names of the kings and queens of England and Johnny was in difficulties. Try as he might, he could not remember them.

"Do you know Johnny," said the teacher at last, "when I was your age I could say all the kings of England forward and backward."

"Could you?" said the youngster in tones of wonder. "But, then, when you were my age there weren't so many of them!"

AS TO FALLING IN LOVE

THERE ARE SO MANY, MANY WAYS OF DOING IT.

And So Great a Number Find When Too Late They Have Never Had the True Experience, Having Mistaken Symptoms.

Now of course there is no difficulty about falling in love. Anyone can do that. The difficulty is to know when the symptoms are true or false, says a Pittsburgh Post writer. So many people mistake the symptoms, and only discover when it is too late that they have never really had the true experience. Hence the importance of "calf love," which serves as a sort of apprenticeship to the mystery and enables you to discriminate between the substance and the shadows.

People laugh at "calf love," but one might as well laugh at the wonder of dawn or the coming of spring. When David Copperfield fell in love with the eldest Miss Larkins he was really in love with the opening universe, and the eldest Miss Larkins happened to be the only available lightning conductor for his emotion.

The important thing is that you should contract "calf love" while you are young. It is like the measles, which is harmless enough in childhood but apt to be dangerous when you are grown up. The "calf love" of an elderly man is always a disaster. Hence the saying, "There is no fool like an old fool." An elderly man should not fall in love. He should walk right into it. He should survey the ground carefully, as Mr. Marks did.

The mistake of "the northern farmer" was that he applied the same middle aged caution to youth. "Doan't you marry for munny, but goa wheer munny is," he said to his son Sammy who wanted to marry the poor parson's daughter.

There is no harm, of course, in marrying money. George Borrow said that there were worse ways of making a fortune than marrying one. And perhaps it is true, though I don't think Borrow's experience was very convincing. I have known people who "have gone where money was" and have fallen honestly and rapturously in love, but you have to be very sure that money in such a case is not the motive. If it is, the penalty never fails to follow.

Those who believe in "love at first sight" take the view that marriages are made in Heaven and that we only come to earth to fulfill our destiny. Johnson, who was an excellent husband to the elderly Mrs. Porter, spoke with that view and held that love was only the accidence of circumstance, but though that is a sensible view, there are cases like those of Dante and Beatrice and Abelard and Heloise, in which the passion doesn't seem to touch the skies. In those cases, however, it rarely ends happily.

A more humdrum way of falling in love seems better fitted for earthly conditions The method of Sir Thomas More was perhaps the most unromantic on record. He preferred the younger of two sisters and was about to marry her when it occurred to him that it would be very unpleasant for the elder sister to see her junior married before herself. Thereupon he proposed to the elder and married her, and as far as I can remember the experiment was thoroughly satisfactory.

Daylight Saving in Canada.

Considerable attention is being given throughout Canada to a so-called daylight-saving scheme. The movement in Halifax is in accord with an effort all over the dominion to have the clock put back one hour on April 1 each year, continuing to some autumn month, in order to give more daylight for work and pleasure. Meetings are being held all over Canada with a view to bringing the matter to the attention of the federal parliament at its next session. The Halifax committee is composed of representatives of the city council, trades and labor council and wholesale and retail merchants.—Commerce Reports.

And we spend much time wondering

Willie—Paw, is a bigamist a man who has one wife too many?

Paw—Not necessarily, my son. Lots of men who have one wife too many are not bigamists.

Advice.

Don't think that fame will seek your door,
Get out, my son, and hustle some;
Go after things and you'll get more

"Yessim," replied Johnny, "I know it. My father has rheumatism in both arms."

"Yes," agreed the fool. "When a girl has a million dollars and a million freckles the freckles are invisible to the average man."

NATIVE LIFE IN NEW GUINEA

Magic, Marrying and Murder Seem Closely Connected Practices Among the Innocent Aborigines.

The expedition led last year up the Fly river in British New Guinea by Sir Robert Clarke resulted in the discovery of some amusing customs, for the members of the party fell in with many who had never seen a white man before.

These natives practice magic which they call kuri-kuri—which kills men by suggestion. "No man among them," says Sir Robert, "is supposed to die naturally. The magic man tells him he is going to die, and he promptly does die. It may not be all hypnotism. Supposing a man is told that he is to die from a snake bite, it is not difficult to make certain of his death.

When a man is dead his relatives must get a head so that his spirit will rest in peace. They go out on a murdering expedition and get their head from the nearest tribe they can surprise. It doesn't matter to them whether the head is that of a man, woman or child.

"The girls will not marry a man unless he has a certain number of heads and has killed a man in personal combat. When a new house is built there must be more killing, because the posts of the house have to be sprinkled with human blood. The hideous warfare never ceases, for a tribe which has been attacked must seek revenge.

"The continual fear of surprise attacks is shown in the character of the houses. These were built in the trees. They were rested on scaffold poles fifty to sixty feet from the ground, were beautifully thatched and were chiefly constructed of palm leaves. They were loopholed in the sides for arrows and holes had been left in the floor through which stones could be dropped on the heads of an enemy.

"Large quantities of stones are kept in the houses. These tree dwellers also wear a kind of bamboo cuirass, which is arrow-proof and would be shot-proof. The arrows used are about five feet long and are projected from very powerful bows. I don't think a white man could draw their bows. I have known a man to be pierced through by an arrow from a distance of 200 yards."—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Activities of Women.

Women in Germany are now being given military training.

The pulse in women is from one to five beats higher than in men.

Because his wife moved 39 times in 10 years, E. T. Turner of Camden, N. J., is seeking for a divorce.

Four policewomen have been appointed in Pittsburgh to censor all magazines sold in that city.

For conspicuous bravery in the performance of duty, Mrs. Isabella N. Goodwin, a police matron, has been placed in the honor regiment of the New York police force.

Miss Rose Pitonoff of Dorchester, Mass., was the first swimmer of either sex to cover the 12 miles between Charlestown bridge and Boston, although many famous home and foreign watermen had previously attempted the feat.

Women are now being employed in all the large factories in England where munitions are manufactured.

A woman must be between the age of thirty and forty to be eligible to appointment on the Chicago police force.

Miss A. Florence Yerger, Philadelphia's most successful woman lawyer, has more business than she can handle herself and has been compelled to open three offices in different parts of the city.

Since the dominion of Canada was created forty-one years ago there have been only 443 divorces granted, while in the United States in the same period of time the courts have dissolved 1,274,341 marriages.

Ways of Petrograd Police.

Count Benckendorff, the Russian ambassador, who is in mourning for the loss of his son, Count Peter, killed in action, had among his predecessors in the title one who told a curious story of the thoroughness of the Petrograd police in the early nineteenth century. He had lost his pocketbook containing a considerable sum, gave notice and had the money restored to him within a day or two, without the pocketbook. Shortly after he found that the pocketbook, still containing the original notes, was not lost, but had slipped into the lining of his fur coat. Naturally, he asked whence had come the restored money. He discovered that the police, rather than admit failure, had collected the money among themselves.—Dundee Advertiser.

Regulating Electric Lamps.

The demand for regulating the degree of light from an electric lamp has resulted in a lamp which has been recently exploited, containing two separate filaments of the lamp, which may be operated separately or together, giving the lamp a rating of 200 watts, with each filament taking 100 watts. A consumption of 0.6 watt per candlepower is claimed for this lamp, and it has a life of 2,000 hours if the filaments are burned separately, or 1,000 when they are burned together.

Happiness.

"I have tried all sorts of happiness, and it never lasts" said a spoiled, petulant, cynical woman.

"Did you ever try forgetting yourself for six months?" said a shrewd listener. The question went to the heart of the trouble. To paraphrase an old proverb, when self comes in at the door, happiness flies out of the window.

The Bible in Russia.

The holy synod at Petrograd has been busily engaged in the work of producing popular editions of the Bible. These are being widely distributed by the Orthodox church among soldiers on the battle field as well as to the sick and wounded. Various Russian Red Cross aid associations are including Bibles and Testaments in their parcels of "comforts" for troops at the front, and as the available stock of the British and Foreign Bible society has became exhausted, the holy synod is undertaking the work of printing fresh editions. Should this wave of enthusiasm for the propagation of the Holy Scriptures prove more than a passing phase we may look forward to a revival of intelligent religious instruction in Russia.

NEIGHBORLY ADVICE

Freely Given by a Charleroi Citizen

When one has suffered tortures from a bad back and found relief from the aches and pains, that persons advice is of untold value to friends and neighbors. The following neighborly advice comes from a Charleroi resident.

Mrs. D. F. Worthington, 914 McKean avenue, Charleroi, says: "I was troubled by backache for years. The pains were so intense it made me sick all over. In the morning when I tried to get up, I was worse. Whenever I stooped, a sharp pain darted through me and I could hardly catch my breath. Often it was just as though a knife was being stuck into me. I was tired all the time. I had rheumatic pains throughout my body. My feet became swollen. Two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Piper Bros., Drug store relieved me of all symptoms of the trouble. I now take Doan's Kidney Pills once or twice a year as a kidney tonic and they always help me."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Worthington had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

ELIMINATE WASTE

The largest and most prosperous corporations have become such by eliminating waste—waste of power, fuel, time and stock—and the individual who succeeds must do likewise.

The ordinary family or individual spends money for excessive luxuries which entails a needless waste of much of the income. And this gives cause for worry and eventually waste of power and stock in-trade—earning capacity.

APEX OF WASHINGTON SHAFT

Few People Know Purpose of Parallel Iron Bands That Bind Brow of Monument.

Few persons who have seen the Washington monument, even those who have lived within sight of it all their lives, have noticed that the apex of the monument is surrounded with parallel bands. Such is the fact, however; and moreover, the bands are studded with golden points. The bands are made of gold plated iron a foot wide and the points are spaced a foot from one another.

For a few moments in each sunny day of the first week of the new year the golden fillet that binds the brow of the Washington monument is visible to human eyes. Then the angle of incidence of the sun's rays is such that they are reflected downward to the windows of the buildings north and west of the monument, and the cool, gray surface is seen to be marked with eleven shining lines of gold.

Theoretically, a similar effect could be obtained from some point of observation at each moment when the sun's rays are intercepted by the sloping top of the monument, but only an airship could attain the necessary vantage point.

According to the original plan of the monument, it was protected from lightning by an aluminum tip that was connected with the metal framework of the elevator. During the very first summer after the monument was completed, however, it was struck twice and a piece of stone was clipped from the top.

Experts from the scientific departments of the government were called on to contrive a plan for the better protection of the shaft, and they decided that copper bands, studded with projecting points, would accomplish the purpose. Colonel Casey, who had charge of the work, objected on the ground that copper would turn green and that the verdigris would "run" and spoil the appearance of the monument, he also doubted that the copper would have the necessary tensile strength.

So the men of science agreed on a number of iron bands, heavily galvanized and gold-plated to prevent rusting. The bands are connected with the aluminium point of the monument and the framework of the elevator, and at the base iron cables lead the electricity into a deep well, where it harmlessly expends its force. The protection has proved to be perfect.—Youth's Companion.

Errors of History.

William Tell was a myth.

Coriolanus never allowed his mother to intercede for Rome.

The duke of Wellington never uttered the famous words, "Up guards, and at them!"

Alfred never allowed the cakes to burn nor ventured into the Danish camp disguised as a minstrel.

Fair Rosamund was not poisoned by Queen Eleanor, but died in the odor of sanctity in the convent of Godstow.

Charles Kingsley gave up his chair of modern history at Oxford because he said he considered history "largely a lie."

Chemists have proved that vinegar will not dissolve pearls or cleave rocks, in spite of the fabled exploits of Cleopatra and Hannibal.

The siege of Troy is largely a myth, even according to Homer's own account. Helen must have been sixty years old when Paris fell in love with her.

The number of Xerxes' army has been grossly exaggerated and it was not stopped at Thermopylae by 300 Spartans, but by 7,000, or even, as some authors compute, 12,000.

Philip VI. flying from the field of Crecy and challenged later before the gates of the castle of Elois, did not cry out: "It is the fortune of France." What he really said was: "Open, open; it is the unfortunate king of France."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Tallest Flagpole.

A fitting symbol of the mighty forests of the West is Astoria's flagpole, the tallest in the world, which floats the stars and stripes 241 feet above the Panama-Pacific exposition sea wall at the corner of the Oregon building. The stick, for it is a single stick of timber, is actually 251 feet long, but ten feet of the butt is imbedded in a 200-ton block of solid concrete, which, without other stays, holds the pole upright against the wind.

The pole was shaped from the trunk of a Douglas fir, which, as it originally stood in the Oregon forest, towered 347 feet in the air, and might have matched its height, though not its girth, against any but the loftiest of the California sequoias. Looking up at the great flagstaff, it is hard to realize that it weighs upward of 46 tons, and that there is lumber enough in it to build five ordinary eight-room houses. Its great height gives it an appearance of slenderness and lightness.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Analysis of the Apple.

Ripe apples contain about 83 per cent water, 0.4 per cent of protein, 12.5 per cent of carbohydrates, 3 per cent of ash, and 2.7 per cent of cellulose. They contain a fuel value of 290 calories to the pound. Of the carbohydrates, from 50 to 75 per cent is sugar and the remainder is made up of vegetable gums or pectose. Pectose is the substance which causes fruit to jelly. The amount of cellulose in fruit varies at different stages of ripeness and in different varieties. Ripe apples contain more sugar and less cellulose and acid than green apples.

MUST NOT MAKE LIQUOR PLEDGES

Wrong For Judiciary Candidates to Take a Stand.

OPINION BY SUPERIOR COURT

President Judge Rice Points Out That An Aspirant for a Seat on the Bench Who Announces How He Will Decide Liquor Applications Disqualifies Himself and Brings Discredit to the Court.

Philadelphia, Aug. 24.—Candidates for the judiciary in counties where the liquor issue overshadows everything else recently learned that it will be dangerous for them to try and reach the bench by means of anti-election promises. The Superior Court, in language that does not bear misunderstanding, emphatically denies the right of a man aspiring to become judge to say before election that if successful at the polls he will grant all liquor licenses or refuse all liquor licenses.

Latterly in sections that give promise of becoming hotbeds on the liquor question, men who seek to elevate themselves to the bench, or to gain re-election to that position, have felt it expedient to take a decided stand and announce to the electors just where they stood on the question of new or old liquor licenses. Now they discover that they have no more right to make such a declaration than they would have to announce beforehand the granting of all divorce petitions, or to promise that they will give binding instructions for the plaintiff in every lawsuit.

What adds zest to the decision of the Superior Court is the fact that it was written by President Judge Charles E. Rice, than whom there is no more scholarly judge on either of the higher benches, and who, while common pleas judge of Luzerne County, never gave a liquor license to a new house.

In the case decided it was alleged that two judges, while candidates for office, announced to the voters that if fortunate enough to be elected they would refuse all liquor licenses. After quoting the statutes and decisions on them, Judge Rice, in his opinion comments as follows:

"Obviously, therefore no judge whose duty is to hear and decide has a legal or moral right to disqualify himself to render a just decision, by determining before hearing that he will grant all applications or refuse all applications. Of what avail is a hearing before such a tribunal? It would be a mere idle ceremony, discreditable to the court that conducted it and tending to bring the administration of law into contempt. As well might the judge refuse to hear, as to publicly pledge himself or secretly resolve not to consider and be guided by the pertinent facts and circumstances brought before him at the hearing or of which he has knowledge, and the law applicable thereto."

Judge Rice further says that nowhere has the principle he states been more forcibly expressed than in the following excerpt from the opinion of Judge Dean in Gross's License:

"For example if a judge should refuse a license, because in his opinion the law authorizing license is a bad law, or if he should grant all licenses because he believed the law wrong as tending to confer a privilege on a special few, in either case there would be no exercise of judicial discretion; both would be the mere despotic assertion of arbitrary will by one in power, that sort of lawlessness which is least excusable and excites most indignation."

In the case considered by Judge Rice the Superior Court did not decide in favor of the complainant because he was unable to prove that the judges, when candidates, publicly announced their future stand on liquor questions. It was shown that advertisements containing their alleged position were freely circulated about the district, but when confronted they denied any connection with the circulars. In other words, to use the language of the Court, "it could not be proven that the pledges were made by their direction or by anyone authorized to speak for them."

The decision of Judge Rice however, will have an important bearing on the judicial situation in a number of counties. Frequently men of the class of lawyers who live by their wits are only too eager to take advantage of a community that is strong at a particular time for a particular principle. These attorneys see before them an opportunity for political advancement and readily espouse any set of principles, whether they believe in them or not, in order to gain a seat on the bench. They do not hesitate to promise anything that will aid them in attaining their ambition.

Undoubtedly the words of the Superior Court judge will have a salutary effect on such men. It brings home to them the fact that they can not hope to reach a judicial height by a ladder of deception, the rungs of which spell lawlessness and which they are using to hoodwink a sincere constituency. Those who run such risk may, in the event of election, discover that they cannot take the oath of office.

Ways of Petrograd Police.

Count Benckendorff, the Russian ambassador, who is in mourning for the loss of his son, Count Peter, killed in action, had among his predecessors in the title one who told a curious story of the thoroughness of the Petrograd police in the early nineteenth century. He had lost his pocketbook containing a considerable sum, gave notice and had the money restored to him within a day or two, without the pocketbook. Shortly after he found that the pocketbook, still containing the original notes, was not lost, but had slipped into the lining of his fur coat. Naturally, he asked whence had come the restored money. He discovered that the police, rather than admit failure, had collected the money among themselves.—Dundee Advertiser.

Children Who Are Afraid at Night.

Writing of "Night Terrors," so common among children, Dr. Adolph Stern says in the New York Medical Journal that these have a deeper cause than those given in the text boks, which are: Adenoids and enlarged tonsils, large or indigestible meals eaten shortly before going to bed, and the telling of harrowing or terrifying stories—like ghost stories.

According to Doctor Stern, children who sit up screaming "Mother, mother!" "The black man!" "The ghost!" or even those who constantly cry for a drink of water, are generally the offspring of neurotic mothers who have themselves been made neurotic by receiving too much attention, too much emotional affection, by being kept too dependent, not leaning on themselves but on others.

The cure for such children is to make them play with other children, to let them do things for themselves, such as dressing and bathing themselves and going to bed alone. Thus they will acquire a spirit of independence.

Daylight Saving in Canada.

Considerable attention is being given throughout Canada to a so-called daylight-saving scheme. The movement in Halifax is in accord with an effort all over the dominion to have the clock put back one hour on April 1 each year, continuing to some autumn month, in order to give more daylight for work and pleasure. Meetings are being held all over Canada with a view to bringing the matter to the attention of the federal parliament at its next session. The Halifax committee is composed of representatives of the city council, trades and labor council and wholesale and retail merchants.—Commerce Reports.

Disastrous Famines.

The worst famines of modern times were the famine in Ireland in 1846-7, in which 1,000,000 people perished; the Indian famine in 1866, which claimed 1,450,000 victims; the Indian famine in 1877, in which 500,000 people perished, and the great famine in China in 1878, in which 9,500,000 perished.

Activities of Patent Office.

Owing to the great activities of the patent office during the last year, the regular appropriation of $440,000 for printing specifications in the Official Gazette and supplemental appropriations of $125,000 have been exhausted, and the issues of the Gazette for June 15, 22 and 29 were not issued on those dates, but these issues will be sent out as early as the publication thereof can be brought about, and owing to the resulting congestion there probably will be some delay in the issue of the Gazette for July until conditions in the office of the public printer become normal. There will, however, be no delay in the issue of patents, designs and trademarks.

The point of the wire which comes between the 12 and the hour hand always points due south.

HOW FEAR TIRES THE BRAIN

Is Same Form of Exhaustion as Disease and Produces Same Effect, Scientist Avers.

Doctor Crile aroused the greatest interest among the many scientific men recently when he illustrated the effect of insomnia, physical exhaustion, fear and disease upon the brain cells of more than fifty rabbits with which he had experimented and declared that each form of exhaustion produced exactly the same effect, both in the lower forms of life and in humans.

The brain, the liver and other organs of the body are connected in the kinetic chain or system, and change in one link of that chain modifies the entire system proportionately Thus disease or exhaustion in one organ of the kinetic system will produce a harmful effect on the brain cells which comprise the great central battery which drives that system.

As many as twenty cells in the brain may be totally destroyed after prolonged insomnia, but, on the other hand, eight hours sleep will often restore the brain cells to a normal condition after a shorter period of exhaustion from insomnia or other causes. In this connection, it was pointed out that athletes who had attained fame in early life by their feats of physical endurance were rarely known to become prominent in other fields in after years.

A change in the system, it was declared, may result in an immediate breakdown or acute shock, or the gradual modification of one or more of the kinetic organs may give rise to a number of diseases. This theory has already given the world the shockless operation, and it opens a possibility of controlling certain chronic diseases which are the result of overstimulation of one or more of the organs in the kinetic chain.

One Thing Frenchwoman Excels In.

There is still one detail of the science of clothes, in which the French surpass us, in which their supremacy is unchallenged. That is the way in which they hat themselves. There has been improvement on our side of the water in this respect also, but there is room for a lot more. There are now fewer women who keep a veil tied around their hats, and on going out don everything at once, running in the pins and pulling down the veil with only a perfunctory glance at the mirror, or none at all.

If you are going to wear a veil at all you might as well put it on properly. There is a certain duty to society in looking as well as one can, and the moral result of making the best of yourself physically, is one whose effect, both upon yourself and upon those with whom you come in contact, it is difficult to overestimate.

Of late years there have been few veils worn in Paris; by the way, French artists have a way of making themselves heard in clothes matters, and they object strenuously to veils. The women seem to know how to keep in perfect trim without them. It is almost a pity that they have been so generally discarded, as it is a charming study to watch a Parisian adjust one. She does it with the fingers of an artist and the insight of a philosopher. The line across the face comes at the psychological point; if there is a pattern it is arranged to the best advantage. She does not allow a spot or a flower in the design to obliterate the tip of her nose or make the mouth look lopsided or obscure her eyes.
